

A photograph of an outdoor patio area at night. The patio is furnished with wicker chairs and tables, some with cushions. Large, glowing spherical pendant lights hang from the ceiling. In the background, a brick building with large windows and a bar area is visible. The scene is illuminated by warm interior and exterior lighting.

MAMA RABBIT

Curated by mezcalera Bricia Lopez, Mama Rabbit is an ode to mezcals and tequilas from across Mexico. Mama Rabbit takes its name from Mayahuel, the goddess of agave and fertility. Mayahuel was the mother of 400 rabbits that she nourished with mezcal and tequila, and thus Mama Rabbit was born. The brightly decorated space features a large, double-sided bar, multiple rooms and Las Vegas’ largest agave-based spirits selection—a collection hand-picked by Lopez, coined the “Oaxacan Princess” by the late Jonathan Gold of the Los Angeles Times. Serving a menu of tequilas, mezcals, signature craft cocktails and light bites, Mama Rabbit invites you to wander into the world of Oaxaca.
